SPECIAL SERVICE AT UNITED CHURCH

A special service will be held at Central United Church on Sunday evening next, when the church honor roll will be dedicated.

Under the leadership of Mr. Moffatt, the choir will sing two anthems. Mrs. Alfred McKay will also sing a solo.

Members of the IODE, the War Veterans and Cadets will be present. A cordial invitation is extended to all to attend this service.

VICTORY LOAN REACHING DESIRED MARK

Advice from Ottawa at noon Thursday stated that the Victory Loan had climbed Wednesday with $72,379,700 as the "Buy an Extra Bond" drive got under way. The cumulative total then stood at $1,051,619,200 as compared with $969,707,800 for the same period of the last loan. Much of the increase comes from earlier reporting of payroll savings and large subscriptions. General sales to the public are up over the last loan, but only moderately so.

COWLEY HAPPENINGS

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Neumann and small son Kennedy were visitors with Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Murphy over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Payne and children, of Cardston, were week end visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Martin.

A Halloween party was held at the village school on Monday afternoon.

Wild red-foxes are reported as becoming troublesome in the Heath Creek district.

The second of a series of what drives is aid of the Red Cross was held in the Masonic hall on Friday evening. Prizes were won by Mrs. I. Christie and Mrs. M. A. Murphy for the ladies, M. A. Murphy and Wilfred Feller for the gents.

EXTRA POLICE ENFORCEMENT OF NATIONAL SELECTIVE SERVICE

Arthur MacNamara, director of National Selective Service, announces that arrangements have been made with the Royal Canadian Mounted Police for increased enforcement activity with respect to men who have not complied with National Selective Service Mobilization Regulations.

"Wherever possible," Mr. MacNamara said, "municipal police authorities will be requested to assist in conducting raids on pool rooms, beverage rooms, taverns, bowling alleys, and other public places in apprehending persons who have not complied with the regulations. A check will be made as to the status of alleged delinquents with the records of the registrars of mobilization and prosecutions will follow in appropriate cases."

Police authorities will also check for cases of non-compliance with National Service Regulations, 1940—that is, persons will be questioned and asked to produce their registration cards.

The marriage of Cpl. Margaret Patterson, RCAF(WD), of No. 10 RD hospital staff, Calgary, to Sgt. E. W. Munro, also of No. 10 RD, RCAF, took place in Calgary on September 11th last, it is announced. The ceremony was performed by No. 10 Repair Depot Padre. Miss Patterson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Patterson, of Blairmore, were in attendance. After a short honeymoon at Ottawa and Blairmore, the young couple returned to Calgary to reside. The groom is youngest of Mr. and Mrs. Munro, of Ottawa. While in Ottawa they had the pleasure of meeting two of the bride's cousins, R. E. and Margaret Freeman, of Macleod.

When a Bond is Bought for Freedom

When a Bond is bought for Freedom it's a splendid thing to do. There are crushed and broken peoples who will thank their God for you. Men and the wide world over is one vast brotherhood. Children of one Heavenly Father, Who hath made us "of one blood;" And the Bond you buy for Freedom, that is for the Common Good.

When a Bond is bought for Freedom then the Right strikes the Wrong. And you join up in the battle for the weak against the strong. Though you cannot march in khaki yet your Bond will buy a gun; It will purchase ammunition; praise the Lord for what it's done. For the Bonds we've bought for Freedom have the Germans on the run.

When a Bond is bought for Freedom it best blesses him who buys And the lad who, for example, bombs the German from the skies. For the Bond is but a symbol of the spirit of mankind, Which will never yield to tyrants and so duty be not blind; When it's Freedom that's in danger true men never lag behind!

When you buy a Bond for Freedom then you serve a righteous cause, And you help defeat aggressors in the greatest of all wars. Our soldiers, sailors, airmen nobly answer duty's call, Lay their lives upon the altar so that Freedom shall not fail; While we just LEND our money these, our boys, are GIVING all.

When you buy a Bond for Freedom there is not a risk to take; It will prove the best investment that a man could ever make. It's your faith that you're investing and reward 'twill surely bring. But your faith without your money is a very sorry thing. Roll up, now, buy Bonds for Freedom, for your Country and your King!

When a Bond is bought for Freedom all the glories of our race And our heritage of Justice are then given foremost place. For our action makes us worthy of the Truth that made us free, Better citizens of Empire and World Brotherhood-to-be. Dare we then withhold our dollars? No! We'll Speed the Victory! —John H. Roberts.

LOCAL AND GENERAL ITEMS

After this war Father Time is to be made an archbishop.

Another great danger in one-arm driving is that you're so likely to skid into a church.

Early in the campaign the district of Canal Flats, B.C., surpassed their Victory Loan quota.

The U.S. miners' strike ended on Wednesday of this week. An increase of $1.50 a day for soft coal miners has been granted.

With total applications for Victory Bonds reaching $50,250, the No. 36 SFTS at Penhold exceeded their quota by 200 per cent.

Sergt. Pilot Charles Wright, son of Rev. and Mrs. J. L. Wright, of Vulcan and formerly of Bellevue, was last week end reported missing in action overseas.

A local Scotchman wrote the editor of a well known magazine and warned that if the publishers did not stop printing Scotch jokes he would absolutely stop borrowing the magazine.

Somerset Maugham states: If a nation values anything more than freedom, it will lose its freedom; and the irony is that if it is comfort or money that it values more, it will lose that too.

Sir Charles G. D. Roberts, 83-year-old Canadian poet and author, was married last week to Joan Montgomery, 33-year-old radio operator at Toronto. The young couple really looked charming.

Sales of used passenger cars by dealers or independent individuals are now governed by price ceiling regulations. Maximum prices are established on a percentage basis according to the age of the model.

LAC Frank W. Bennett, RAF, from Liverpool, in training at North Battleford, Sask., is spending a furlough here with his cousin, Mr. Stan Heppell, and Mrs. Heppell. This is the first meeting of Frank and Stan in fifteen years.

Flight Sergt. Amund is prisoner 42755 in Stalag IX-C in Germany. He was in fatal missing, then a prisoner of war. He recently had his left leg amputated above the knee. The other day his mother visited the Canadian Red Cross headquarters in Montreal to make a donation of $25. In his last letter, Amund requested that this sum be taken from his savings and given to the Red Cross to show his appreciation for the work the society is doing for prisoners of war.

REMEMBRANCE DAY

Canada will pause to pay homage again, on November 11, 1943, to the youth who died in the fight against the Germans 25 years ago. In honor of those men, and in added honor of their sons who have perished fighting the same foe, the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation is co-operating with the Canadian Legion in presenting a special Remembrance Day broadcast. The programme will be heard over the national network of the CBC in Thursday next, November 11, at 8.15 p.m.

NATIONAL SELECTIVE SERVICE REGULATIONS

Any person or persons going to British Columbia from agricultural or industrial areas, particularly on holidays with the expectation of securing work, are warned that B.C. National Selective Service officers will request a National Selective Service clearance certificate from every person applying for work. Unless this certificate is obtained before leaving, considerable inconvenience and loss of time may be caused to any applicant seeking work.

THE MINERS GO OUT

Nine thousand coal miners in Alberta and British Columbia are out on strike. The miners have asked for higher wages, holidays with pay, and some other concessions, but the strike has not been called because of a refusal of these demands by the coal operators. The operators have properly passed on the miners' requests to the federal government, which has failed up to the present to do anything about it. It is true that a commission was appointed to inquire into the situation, but the appointment was far too late to do any good, and there was no guarantee that the findings of the commission would be put into effect. Without going into the merits or otherwise of the miners' demands, there is no possible excuse for the government fooling around and letting the public suffer from lack of coal. A War Lobar Board was appointed months ago, headed by Mr. Justice McTague. It made a report, or rather two reports, some months ago. So far neither of these reports have been elevated, except through inspired statements, and the public and organized labor, two of the groups vitally concerned, are completely in the dark as to the government's intentions. By its appointment of Mr. Mitchell as minister, by its persistent refusal to appoint representatives of organized labor to any of the government boards, and in many other ways, the Mackenzie King government has seemed to go out of its way to affront the thousands of men and women who serve in labor's army. They get plenty of platitudes about how important they are to Canada and that sort of thing, but of real consideration they get none at all. The cost of this policy is far too high for peace time, and is nothing short of suicidal now. The country needs a settlement, and needs it at once.

A. B. Trites, a pioneer merchant of Fernie and member of the big firm of Trites-Wood Co., died at Vancouver on October 28th at the ripe age of 80.

A leading mining man, he helped organize the Premier mine and was a central figure in development of some of the best known fields in British Columbia. His partners, W. R. Wilson and R. W. Wood, of the Trites-Wood Co., Fernie and Michel.

Mr. Trites moved to Fernie from Macleod away back in 1898, having owned a store and established a good general business in the old town. A couple of years ago he sold his interest in the big stores to E. K. Stewart, who still conducts them under the style of the Trites-Wood Co., Ltd.

Expensive beer! Two Cranbrook men were convicted of breaking and entering the Cranbrook brewery, taking therefrom two barrels of beer and a barrel of ale. They were fined $300 each, which they paid rather than spend three months in jail.

The cost of living goes up to Canadian wage earners goes up 35 cents a week, or 1.4 per cent of wages, depending on wage category, as from November 15th. The cost of the increase to Canadian employers is estimated unofficially at about $58,000,000 a year.

FLASH! As we go to press, we are informed by the local Victory Loan headquarters that all units in the Pass-Coleman, Blairmore-Frank and Bellevue-Hillcrest—are all over the top, having surpassed their quotas in the Fifth Loan during the past two days. Notwithstanding this achievement, you are reminded to "Buy That Extra Bond." Salesmen will carry on till the closing time late Saturday evening and will be only too pleased to help you make out another application form.

NO CHRISTMAS CARDS FOR PRISONERS OF WAR

Sending of Christmas cards to Canadian and other British military prisoners of war and civilian internees in Europe is prohibited this year, according to information supplied by Ottawa to the local postmaster.

It was pointed out that last year the large number of Christmas cards caused a heavy congestion of enemy censorship, with the result that ordinary letters for the prisoners were much delayed, and the prisoners themselves have expressed the opinion that they would rather receive ordinary letters promptly than have them held up through the sending of Christmas cards. The restriction does not apply to Canadians interned in neutral countries.

Alberta has again defaulted a bond, the third for this year. This time it is for $3,012,463, issued in 1913. Alberta's Social Credit government agrees to pay bond interest at half the contracted rate of 4 1/2 per cent.

Carloads of Mexican oranges, which for years have been barred from the United States, are passing through the U.S. now bound for Canada in bond. They are not permitted to be used in the States in an effort to be possible prevent the spread of the Mexican fruit fly.

Fire developed in the Greenhill mine near Cougar Valley last week and has gained serious proportions.

It has become necessary to lay a two-mile pipe line connecting with Burns Creek, from which water will be pumped to the scene in the hope of quenching it. Even if the miners had not been on strike, it is doubtful if the major portion of the mine could have been operated. Six-inch piping material had to be brought in from Spokane by special freight on Wednesday evening, and the work of laying and connecting is going ahead with all speed possible. Dense smoke impedes the work greatly, and the firefighters are greatly handicapped. A. A. Millar, chief mines inspector for Alberta, and J. McAndrew, superintendent of mine rescue work, are on the job.

GROWN IN SUNNY, SOUTHERN ONTARIO

The Air Blockade

FOR MANY MONTHS PAST, there have been few days on which we have not heard reports of large-scale Allied raids on Germany, and on German-occupied territory. It is apparent that these raids are a part of the great Allied offensive and that they form one part of the master plan for the destruction of Germany. We are told that this great air offensive had its beginning in the Battle of Britain, a little more than three years ago, when the Royal Air Force, greatly outnumbered in both men and machines by the Luftwaffe, destroyed 2,378 German planes with a loss of only 735 British machines. At this time the supremacy of the air over Britain was established by the Royal Air Force, and that supremacy was gradually extended over the English Channel and farther and farther into the skies over Europe. As greatly increased numbers of planes and men have become available, the Allies have steadily developed these air attacks, which are without doubt hastening the downfall of Germany.

R.A.F. Trained For Offensive

It has been pointed out that the Luftwaffe was built up, in the years before the war, as a supporting weapon for Germany's land armies. In contrast, Britain's strategy included plans for the air blockade on enemy territory, to supplement the already well-tried naval blockade. It has been calculated that land forces constitute only one-fifth of a nation's war strength, and that the other four-fifths is in its war industries and transport systems. Accordingly, the Royal Air Force was trained not only for combat, but to carry on the destruction of the main part of the enemy's military might. Results of the large raids of recent months have shown how effective this strategy has been. Hamburg, Essen, Cologne, and other German cities have been demolished, and with them many important war industries. The effect of these raids on the production of war materials, and on the morale of the German people will no doubt be an important factor in Germany's ultimate defeat.

Oil Supplies Are Reduced

In carrying out this great air blockade, the Royal Air Force has in some cases increased the effectiveness of the naval blockade. An example of this has been shown in the case of Nazi oil supplies. The Royal Navy cut off 80 per cent of Hitler's pre-war imports, and subsequently air attacks have been directed at oil wells and refineries whose products were available to Germany. Likewise, while the navy has disrupted German shipping near the coast of Europe, the Air Force has destroyed great numbers of trains and locomotives in enemy territory. In 1939 it is said that Germany had a shortage of 6,000 locomotives and 112,000 freight cars. "Train busting raids", in which many Canadians take part, have now become a part of the air offensive, and it is estimated that 150 German locomotives are damaged each month in these raids. In addition, German locomotive factories are frequently attacked and it is known that the railway systems in Germany and Occupied Europe are badly disrupted. These facts all show the great importance of the air offensive in the Allied plan for the defeat of Hitler.

HEALTH LEAGUE OF CANADA
LOW-SUGAR PICKLE RELISH
Since you are not allowed sugar for pickling, pre-war recipes are no longer much used. Even though pickles are little nutritional value, the homemakers this year are counting on them to add variety and interest to meals which are becoming simpler and less varied every day. For this reason I feel sure you will relish this salt for little or no sugar. The Consumer Information Service of the Wartime Information Board have several recipes. I have chosen two of the unusual relatives:

Vegetable Marrow Chutney
5 lbs. vegetable marrow
1 cup salt
1 tablespoon mustard
3½ pints malt vinegar
1 lb. onions, chopped fine
Peel a ripe vegetable marrow, cut in half and remove all seeds and stringy parts. Cut marrow into small pieces, cover with the salt and leave for 12 hours. Mix mustard and turmeric with a little of the vinegar, add remaining vinegar and all other ingredients except the marrow, and boil 15 minutes. Drain and wash marrow, add to boiling mixture and cook until marrow is soft. Pour into sterilized jars that seal. Makes about 2½ pints. Malt vinegar gives a colour and flavour that approximates that of imported chutneys.

Uncooked Vegetable Salad Pickle
1 gallon ripe tomatoes
2 green or red peppers
6 medium onions
1 head celery, finely chopped
1 cup salt
1½ cups sugar
1 tsp. cinnamon
1 tsp. cloves
1 tsp. pepper
2 small hot peppers (chillies)
OR ¼ tsp. cayenne pepper
1 quart vinegar
Peel and cut tomatoes into small pieces. Add chopped peppers, onions and celery. Put salt on vegetables and let stand overnight. Drain well. This is most important as otherwise a very juicy mixture will result. Mix sugar and spices with vinegar and pour over vegetables. Pour into sterilized sealers and seal tightly. Makes about 5 pints.
Low-sugar pickle recipes are available on request from the Publicity and Extension Division, Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa. Ask for Wartime Pickles and Relishes.

United Kingdom Bears The Bulk Of Defence Costs
The United Kingdom bears the bulk of the cost of defence of the Colonial Empire; these territories pay only a little more than they did in peacetime, which was generally under five per cent of their total budgets. Britain gives financial help on a large scale for India's defence, to the extent of millions of pounds sterling, and bears the cost of India's troops abroad.

Our Boys And Girls On Active Service

(By J. G.)

THE symbols of the heroic stand of the First Battalion, Winnipeg Grenadiers at Hong Kong in 1941, a dented battle scarred bugle and a Royal Winnipeg hat badge has been sent back to Canada. Souvenirs found there by D. G. R. Middleburg, former Netherlands Consul General, who interned in the Crown Colony. The hat has since been repatriated.

Western men were in the forefront of the heavy fighting in the Sicilian campaign, and awards for bravery announced each night would indicate that fact. A Military Cross, among others went to Lt. John E. Charles Munro, 23, MacLeod, Alta. For rushing a pill box single handed, Lt. Edmund Patenaude, 23, of Ponape, Alta., got a Military Medal, as did Private Wilf Kelly, 38, of Nepean, Manitoba. Among the Military Medal awards winners also were Corp. R. W. Ellwood, Edmonton, Alta., and J. G. McRide of Vancouver and Seattle, B.C.

U.S. reaction to the rescue of ten aye aye was by a "New York Evening" in the shadow of iceberg in the cold Atlantic was enthusiastic and it got splendid press publicity. Western lands who assisted, included Stoker Petty Officer Sidney Francis of North Battleford, Sask., and John Baker, Moose Jaw, Sask., and Seaman Carl Thorndorn, Canmore, Alta., and quite a few from Calgary, Winnipeg and Vancouver. One of our boys said: "It was really touching to see them go through those treacherous waters to locate the aye ayes and families; they kept kissing the pictures and praising the seaman all in one breath. Each one of the aye ayes wrote words of praise and thanks in the ship's log afterwards."

Private Marie Christie of the Canadian Women's Army Corps, who designed the costumes for the Lantz on Broadway and trained under Valentina, New York's famous designer, has passed judgment on the C.W.A.C. uniform, and she says, "I find it very smart." She should know, because she wears that uniform every day. She thinks the whole outfit has character, and so do we all.

With the R.C.A.F. overseas: More Distinguished Flying Crosses for Canadian fliers, who are rated among the best in the world. One of them, S. W. R. Williamson of Elbow, Sask., will wear the ribbon now for his gallant part in a "large number of sorties." And so will P.O. D. B. Williams, of Saskatoon, who is with the bomber squadrons and has suddenly the propeller fell away and the burning engine died. He was wounded, but he got back to base for he got that aircraft back to base despite these seemingly insurmountable obstacles.

An incident which should propel us all toward the blood bank. A young Army lieutenant, husky six-foot-one Lieut. Edward Reed of Hamilton, Ont., on operational duties on the Atlantic coast, was injured in a motorcycle spill near Glace Bay, N.S. He was discovered by an army sergeant, taken to an R.C.A.F. hospital by a passing civilian motorist, flown to Montreal three hours later with a Navy nurse, and given nine transfusions with blood collected by the Red Cross. What team work! And the officer has been able to tell the story himself.

Millions Of Pounds Of Fish Will Be Shipped Overseas

Canadian fish will be sent to Canadian troops overseas, Hon. Ernest Bertrand, Federal Minister of Fisheries, said in an interview at Victoria.

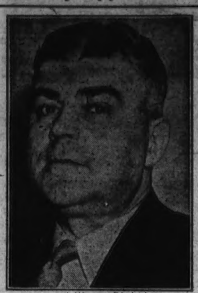

"We are shipping 1,200,000 cases of salmon and 1,000,000 cases of herring overseas this year," the Minister said.

"In addition we are requisitioning 9,000,000 pounds of frozen cod fillets and 25,000,000 pounds of salt cod for United Nations consumption.

Railway Appointment

E. H. JENKINS

Succeeding A. A. Campbell, who has retired owing to ill health after 35 years of faithful service, E. H. Jenkins, of Edmonton, has been appointed assistant general superintendent, car equipment, Canadian National Railways, according to an announcement by A. Beardsley, general superintendent. Mr. Jenkins' headquarters will be in Winnipeg. Mr. Jenkins entered railway service in 1910 as a coach carpenter at Fort Rouge shops and after serving at Belmont and Rainsy River, moved to Edmonton in 1939 where he has remained since. Mr. Campbell started his railway career in 1908 as a car repairer at Rivers and moved to Transcona in 1913. He was appointed to his present position in 1937.

Ship Tonnage

So Many Variations Prove A Puzzle To The Landman

As we hear it, there are at least six different ways of reckoning a ship's tonnage. There is "dead-weight tonnage"; there is "gross tonnage"; "displacement tonnage"; "net tonnage"; "cargo tonnage"; and "bale cubic capacity".

Maybe these variations are all clear enough to the seafarer, but to the landman they are more than puzzling. Some months ago President Roosevelt instructed the War Shipping Administrator and the Navy Department to devise some uniform method of arriving at a calculation of marine tonnage. "If this can be done, the public will certainly find their able much better to understand a good many statistics concerning ship losses and building achievements than is at present the case," Halifax Chronicle.

SWINE ERYSIPELAS

Usual Among Young Pigs During Spring, Summer Or Fall

Swine Erysipelas has for many years been one of the most important diseases affecting swine in Continental Europe and the British Isles. It made its appearance on this continent about 1821 and since that time it has become very prevalent in this province. Swine of all ages are susceptible, but as a rule, outbreaks of swine erysipelas are confined to pigs in the second half of the year. It is more common during the spring, summer and fall, but may occur at any season of the year.

The cause of swine erysipelas is an organism known as the erysipilotoxin. This organism is very resistant to adverse conditions and has been known to live in the soil or putrefying material for many months. This organism can live in the soil, the infection being spread by means of the litters of pigs. It is also known that this germ may be harbored in the bodies of apparently healthy swine. These animals act as carriers and may transmit the infection when placed in contact with healthy pigs. The disease is thought to be spread by healthy hogs consuming food or water which has become contaminated by discharges from diseased animals.

Symptoms. Symptoms displayed by pigs affected with this disease are varied and are usually described as acute, chronic, and skin types. In the acute type the onset is sudden and animals may be found dead without any previous symptoms being noted. In the chronic type, several pigs may be found sick with temperatures ranging from 105 to 106 degrees. They may cough and are often distressed. Later they refuse food. Dulness, jerky breathing, with vomiting and constipation are often noted. The animals appear stiff when forced to exercise. Pigs suffering from the acute type may die in a few days; others may completely recover, while others show gradual improvement and lapse into the chronic form.

Skin Type. From twenty-four to forty-eight hours after the onset of the disease, irregular red or purple patches, which are neither swollen nor tender, may occur in the higher parts of the skin. These patches vary in size from 1 to 1½ inches in diameter, and as they are roughly diamond shaped the name commonly given to this type of swine erysipelas is diamond skin disease. This type of erysipelas is not often fatal, many pigs showing these symptoms make a complete recovery.

Chronic Type. In this type the joints become enlarged and painful. Marked stiffness is noted, and if the animal is forced to exercise, it may show evidence of great pain. Loss of weight and general unthriftiness are usually observed. In another form of the chronic type, litters will not wean until they are two to three months old, when in spite of good care they become unthrifty, the skin loses its bright clear appearance, becoming dry and scaly, and the hair falls out. The animals are suffering from this type fail to develop and frequently weigh only 35 to 40 lbs. when six months old. Animals suffering from the chronic type of swine erysipelas often live for months and then die, some, however, slowly recover but usually remain unthrifty, poor hogs.

Post Mortems. Post Mortems held on pigs dying from this disease reveal no definite lesions. In the acute form, the lungs may show evidence of pneumonia, but with a clear serous fluid. The spleen is usually enlarged, and the pulp of this organ is a very dark in colour. The surface of the spleen may be studded with small elevations from the size of a pea to a large bean. Small hemorrhages may be found on the lining of the heart, and in the chronic form, cauliflower-like growths may be found on the heart valves.

Diagnosis. The diagnosis of swine erysipelas should always be confirmed by sending a sick pig to a laboratory for examination. Recently a new method of diagnosis has been developed, whereby blood samples can be collected from suspected pigs and forwarded to a laboratory where a definite diagnosis can be made by means of a blood test.

Treatment. All affected pigs should be isolated from healthy animals, placed on soft, easily digested food, and kept in comfortable surroundings. If given in the early stages, anti swine erysipelas serum has proved valuable in the treatment of this disease. It should be given in doses of not less than 20 cc. per 100 lbs. of pig, injected under the skin. This dose should be repeated every 12 to 24 hours until improvement is noted. This serum can also be used to give Immediate protection to healthy swine which have been exposed to swine erysipelas; a 10 to 20 cc dose, according to the size of the pig, should be used. In the treatment of the chronic form of erysipelas, the anti-serum has proved of little value and is not recommended. Prevention. On premises where swine erysipelas has been known to exist, it is wise to protect young pigs by the following method. Inject each pig when one week of age with 10 cc of anti swine erysipelas serum, 5 cc on each side behind the elbow. This dose should be repeated in thirty days. This method is effective during the life of the average pig. Smaller doses of anti swine erysipelas serum are frequently recommended for the prevention of swine erysipelas in baby pigs, but doses of less than 10 cc have not proven very satisfactory. On premises where the disease has been known to exist, healthy swine should be kept away from contaminated houses, pens and pastures. Swine known to have been infected should not be kept for breeding purposes. Contaminated houses, pens, etc., should be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected.

Turner Valley Oil

Deepest Well In The British Empire Reaches Depth Of More Than Two Miles

Reported to be the deepest well in the British Empire, Shell Oil Exploration's test in the Jumping Pound, Alberta, 26 miles southwest of Calgary, has reached a depth of 11,833 feet—more than two miles into the earth. Shell officials stated they intend to carry on for another 200 feet in the limestone, if necessary. Only Turner Valley wells, so far, have obtained commercial production from the Madison limestone in the foothills of Alberta.

Cheaper Credit For The Farmer Said Necessary

SEIGNIOURY CLUB, Que.—Agricultural reconstruction must start with the farmer himself and he must have facilities whereby he can improve his business, Dr. E. A. Aubin, director of Dominion experimental farms, said here.

"This obviously involves cheaper credit comparable at least to that which is available in industry," he said in an address prepared for delivery to the Canadian chamber of commerce annual meeting.

Farmers would prefer fair prices for their products without subsidies, bonuses, subventions and the like, he added.

"In my opinion 75 per cent. of the urban consumers of foodstuffs, if questioned at the present time, would claim that the farmers of Canada were not only highly prosperous but, thinking of terms of retail prices, may still brand the farmers as extortionists and robbers.

"It is true that leading businessmen realize that the producers of our foodstuffs are paying income taxes in such small numbers, not of their own choice, but for the simple reason that the earning power in labor income on the average farm in Canada, even with the free labor of wife and children thrown in, is little less than that which industry and governments pay to a grade 1 stenographer.

Next to the farmer's own ability, the condition of the soil would continue to govern food production. There had to be conservation, reclamation and adequate fertilization.

Soil surveys were beginning to show the potential weaknesses and danger signals. Millions of acres of good soil were "getting out of kilter" and needed study and attention.

Many farm machines now were obsolete, and with the farmer's present buying power he stood a poor chance of adequately re-equipping his farm with the most modern labor-saving machinery. Without doubt modern labor-saving machinery would to a greater extent be co-operatively owned or operated by farmers.

"Canadian farmers must have more modern farm machinery and power, must have it at a much reduced price, and must have it so standardized that repairs and replacements will be vastly cheaper than in the past."

Research work had to be extended, with the development of new grain varieties, new and improved types of fruits and vegetables, and new systems of preservation. Industry must encourage enlarged soybean production, in association with the development of other uses for farm products, Dr. Aubin said.

COST IS HEAVY

LONDON.—The ministry of economic warfare estimated that Nazi domination is costing occupied countries of Europe nearly $1,200,000,000 ($5,400,000,000) a year in German financial levies in addition to $500,000,000 a year in unpaid export balances.

URGES EXTENSION

Canada's Three-Mile Limit Too Small For Fishing Purposes

VANCOUVER.—Possible extension of the three-mile limit for fishing off Canada's coasts to 10 miles or an even greater distance was foreseen here by Hon. Ernest Bertrand, federal minister of fisheries, as a measure to protect the Dominion's fishing industry and increase its revenue.

Such a move would largely prevent any recurrence of the situation existent before the war when huge Japanese "floating canneries" operated outside the three-mile limit off the British Columbia coast and carried away much choice fish.

It would also cut down considerably the amount of fish now caught by United States boats operating off the B.C. coast.

"The three-mile limit is too small for fishing purposes," the minister said in an interview.

"We should be able to control fisheries farther off the coast than that," he said. "In many cases fish spawn and live outside the three-mile limit; no one has any control over these."

BENEFITS CANADA

Value Of Alaska Highway Cannot Be Over-Estimated

VANCOUVER.—Maj.-Gen. W. W. Foster, special commissioner for defence projects in northwest Canada, told a service club luncheon meeting that the strategic value of the Alaska highway and airfields chain cannot be over-estimated in defending the Northwest passage and linking this continent directly with our Russian ally.

In addition, he said, the highway opens possibilities for undreamed of commercial benefits to Canada. He predicted that a projected national park, embracing the greatest glacial area on the continent, would prove an outstanding recreation area and tourist attraction.

Gen. Foster makes his headquarters at Edmonton.

NEW IRON

Britain Making Iron Three Times As Strong As Before The War

LONDON.—British foundries are making a new iron, three times as strong and as tough as the finest iron known before the war. It has a tensile strength of as much as 60 pounds to the square inch compared with the maximum 15 pounds of iron manufactured in 1939.

Put into full production less than two years ago, this acicular iron, as it is known, is the product of years of research. It is being used on an increasing scale in armaments and in certain vital munition parts.

JAPAN WORRIED

Fears Air Raids And Industries Being Moved From Cities

LONDON.—Japanese worries over the possibility of air raids were reflected in a "complete reorganization of the air raid precaution system" calling for the evacuation of the population of large towns.

The Berlin radio reported the plans, saying they were announced in the Japanese diet by Kishuro Ando, minister of interior.

Transfer of industries to rural parts of the country is to be speeded up, the broadcast said.

Allied Air Raids Cause Lowered German Morale

BERNE.—A new story of lowered German morale which is "gnawing at the foundation of the Nazi regime" and a description of a dispirited Reich where "the people no longer are interested in official communications and no longer listen to Hitler" was told in a dispatch to the Swiss newspaper Gazette de Lausanne.

It said the causes of the "psychological collapse" were cumulative, including the military reverses beginning with El Alamein and Stalingrad, "but above all, the Allied air offensive."

The writer said Hitler had ordered the present German stand in southern Italy for propaganda purposes, acting against the advice of his high command, which recommended withdrawal to the north.

"I cannot insist enough on the disastrous effects wrought on German morale of the night raids of the R.A.F. and the U.S.A.A.F.," he wrote.

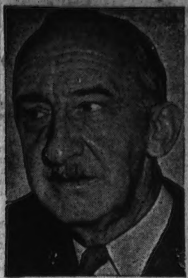

"Not only have they annihilated Hamburg, reduced Essen to a smoking mass of rubble, ravaged Cologne, Dusseldorf and Rostock, but all cities and villages, even in secluded districts, have been submitting to this nightly for over a year. Germans cannot sleep without fear."

All authorized voices in the Reich from Hitler to the smallest provincial newspaper are seeking above all to fight the tendency the people suddenly are manifesting to interpret everything with discouragement, the dispatch declared.

Yet the German people "are too deprived of initiative to create an opposition movement. There is no strong underground organization."

Col. DeWolf has been in charge of all troops in the Bahamas, including Canadian, R.A.F., U.S. and local forces, since June, 1942. He was military adviser to His Royal Highness, the Duke of Windsor, Governor of the Bahamas, and while there held the rank of full Colonel (local). In the Great War, he enlisted as a gunner in Cape's Battery, Montreal, in 1915 and was promoted to the rank of captain during the war.

STORE SALES INCREASE

OTTAWA.—Dollar value of sales in Canadian department stores during September, including mail order business, was three per cent. higher than sales in September last year, the unadjusted index on the base 1935-1939 equals 100 standing at 103.1 compared with 101.9, the Dominion bureau of statistics said.

Each soldier going overseas is accompanied by from five to 12 tons of equipment.

Field Marshal Jan C. Smuts, premier of the Union of South Africa, who recently arrived in London for consultation and discussions at the invitation of the British government, is shown with Prime Minister and Mrs. Churchill in the garden of No. 10 Downing St. Prime Minister Churchill is wearing his "victory suit."

AMENDED ORDER

Will Allow Neighbors Small Exchanges Of Sugar For Tea

OTTAWA.—Now, when Mrs. Jones wants to borrow a pinch of tea, you can trade her a cup of sugar and do it legal-like.

Not that the practice has been frowned upon officially, but the prices board announced an amendment to its consolidated ration order to permit neighborhood exchanges of rationed goods that have been lawfully acquired. The amendment is now effective.

Under the rationing order, gifts, loans or exchanges of rationed commodities have been prohibited as a "necessary provision" to minimize opportunity for "deliberate abuses and evasions" of regulations.

There's never been any intention, says the board, to restrict normal quantities and no steps have been taken to stop them, although—on paper—they have been prohibited since rationing began.

New Campaign To Keep Down Cost Of Living

OTTAWA.—The prices board, as managing director of the government's organization to keep down the cost of living, stands ready to back up the labor department in a new campaign against inflation.

While government policy still has to be announced, Ottawa sources have expressed belief the cost-of-living bonus is likely to disappear, to be replaced by a structure of basic wage rates which will include the present bonus.

Authorities here said they thought a basic rate structure alone could be made acceptable if some guarantees were given that a dollar would buy as much of the necessities of life next year as it does now.

The prices board, through existing machinery, could give that guarantee. Already the board, under instructions from the finance department of which it forms part, has used its subsidy machinery to check a rise in the cost-of-living index.

In December, 1942, when an increase in the index threatened, the board instituted subsidies reducing the price to consumers of coffee, tea and milk. The price of oranges also was lower.

By this means, at a cost estimated at $40,000,000 a year, the threatened rise in the index was checked. Since then, however, the index has risen, with the prospect bonuses will have to be revised upward Nov. 15.

Informed sources said subsidies paid by the prices board might well prove less costly than continuing the bonus system, and meeting each new rise in the index with new payments to workers.

A rise of one percentage point in the index, equivalent to 25 cents a week in bonus payments to hundreds of thousands of workers, means employers have to pay about $38,000,000 more annually.

All subsidies paid by the prices board this year may reach a total of $120,000,000, but officials said it

Merge Canadian Paratroops With British Division

LONDON.—It was learned that the Canadian parachute unit in Britain has been merged with a British parachute division and is preparing for action with it.

There had been conjecture since formation of the unit was announced whether it would be fitted into the Canadian overseas army and if so, how.

Training with Britons presumably means it will fight as part of the British formation similar to the way the Canadian 1st Division joined the British 8th Army in Sicily and continued with Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery in Italy.

The knowledge added further to speculation whether any plans to keep the Canadians as an entity are definitely dashed.

On the other hand, it also raised the possibility that the Britain-based Canadians—the overseas army is known to contain five divisions, three infantry, two armored—will be used as part of the spearhead of a big British or Allied army in some future action in which parachute troops would figure as they did with the American 7th Army in Sicily.

In this event Canadian paratroops would still be fighting with Canadians.

The parachute unit has been in Britain for some months adding to the training gained at Fort Benning, Ga., and Shilo, Man.

OTTAWA.—Employment of the Canadian parachute unit in Britain with a British airborne division is a matter for Canadian military authorities overseas, it was stated at defence headquarters.

(A London despatch said it was learned the battalion is preparing for action with a British division.)

The Canadian policy applicable to the whole army overseas is that it is ready to serve in whole or in part wherever the high command considers it can best contribute to victory. The 1st division was detached from the Canadian army and sent to Sicily and later to Italy with the British 8th Army.

It is expected other Canadian units and formations may from time to time serve with larger British or other composite United Nations forces as conditions warrant.

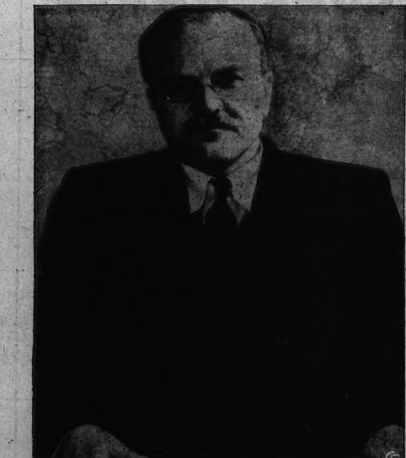

is felt they have been less than anticipated and that they are well justified by results.

Under an extended subsidy policy, designed to maintain the dollar value of the basic wage, the board would continue to use all its experience and authority to hold prices without the use of subsidies, but if uncontrollable costs the board would be able to pay such subsidies as were deemed necessary to protect the consumer.

Thus, the protection against further increased costs would be given solely by the government, rather than by a combination of the government and employers.

FOR A BOY WHO DIED FOR ME

I'm buying a Bond for a freckled kid
Who lived down the street—
A boy with a dog just a while ago—
A name on a list today! . . .
I'm buying a Bond for a barefoot lad
Who only a short time back
Was romping the fields of the old home town.

But died in a far attack;

I'm coming across in the memory
Of youngsters who left this town
With laughter and jokes and their heads held high

To take on the scrappers' frown;
The kids who were down in the swim-
in' hole

Or played in the high school show—
The boys who'd be out on the sand-lots now . . .

Except that it can't be so!

I'm signing for all I can take abroad;
I thought I had done my share—
Until in the hometown sheet today
I saw "Johnny Adams" there;
He'd brought me my paper every night,

A child on a bike bright red;
He's riding the path to the house right now

I thought . . . but the lad is dead!

I listen to speeches o'er mikes galore
That tell of the Fifth Loan drive,
But all I hear is the cannons' roar—

The whine of the power drive;
The speeches, the music, the ballyho
All leave me a little cold . . .

For I know a boy who just died for me—

And couldn't be quite that old.

A duty? A noble and handsome act
This buying a Victory Bond? Bank!
Since when was investment on sure things

A sacrifice? Scrap that junk!
I'm doing a painless and little thing:
One sales point alone rings true:
My debt to those lads from the old home town—

Who asked for their lives came through!

Canadian Pacific Women Fill Enlisted Men's Places

Invading such predominantly masculine strongholds as locomotive shops and maintenance of way gangs, women have been helping to take up part of the slack caused by the enlistment of 152,385 men in the active armed forces from the Canadian Pacific Railway. At the first of September this year there were 675 women employed by the Canadian Pacific in positions normally filled by men.

This layout shows some of the women at work. Giving the final touches to the top of a locomotive in the roundhouse at Sud-

Father-daughter combinations are not unusual now as demonstrated by the railroading Sauves his daughter, Lucille Sauve, an

The list of women doing men's

THE CHARTERED BANKS OF CANADA

The U.S. Navy has taken over the USS Lafayette, formerly the French liner Normandie, from salvaging contractors, to be refitted and remodelled as a troopship. Restoration of the $3,000-ton ship which capsized after a fire on February 9, 1942, was marked by ceremonies at the North River pier, New York.

One of those unfortunate errors that people talk about happened the other day in one of Ottawa's big hotels. Dr. Liu Shih-shun, Chinese minister to Canada, gave a luncheon for a Chinese visitor, a nicely planned affair. But the table decorations unfortunately were chrysanthemums, the national flower of China's arch-enemy, Japan.

A true story is being told of a certain Ontario clergyman who is getting along in years and whose memory is not as good as it might be. He buried a woman member of his congregation and some time later, when he met her daughter on the street, he forgot about the funeral and asked: "And how is your mother standing the heat?"

Stop Me If . . .
"Honest" Hank Jones was returning answered based upon family history as the medical examiner went through the long list of questions furnished by the insurance company.

He gave his mother's death at 43 of tuberculosis. At what age did his father die? A little past 39, of what? Of cancer.

"Bad family record," said the doctor. "No use going any further," and he tore up the blank.

Impressed by the lesson that one shouldn't make the same mistake twice, Hank applied for a $10,000 policy with another company.

"What was your father's age at death?" he was asked.

"He was 98," Hank replied.

"And of what did he die?"

"Father was thrown from a pony at a polo game."

"How old was your mother at death?"

"She was 94."

"Cause of death?"

"Childbirth."

Eighty-five hundred men days in Alberta and British Columbia coal mines have already been irretrievably lost—consequently industrial production and public welfare will suffer. This strike in war time, and the action of the miners' executive in calling a walkout, particularly when a Royal Commission was in session, cannot be excused—Albertan.

The Beaverlodge experimental station has been doing some commendable publicity work in the Peace River block by distributing samples of apples grown there. A particular apple distributed was the Heyer No. 12, about twice the size of the average crabapple and reported to be pretty good fruit. The spot where this apple is grown is 500 miles north of the international boundary line, and no one would imagine that this would be in the fruit belt.

Angus was displaying to his neighbor, McDonald, the second-hand car he'd bought. "It looks fine, mon," said McDonald, "but Ah'm think'n' it'll be costing ye a lot in petrol."

"No' si bad," replied Angus proudly. "Ye ken, it's downhill tae toon, and I can get a tow home most days."

Among the guests at a reception was a distinguished man of letters. He was grave and somewhat taciturn. One of the ladies present suggested to the hostess that he seemed out of place in such a party.

"Yes," replied the hostess with a bright smile, "you see, he can't talk anything but sense!"

SMILE AWHILE

Customer (heavily)—You ought to be in the war instead of in the grocery store.

Proprietor—What makes you say that?

Customer—No enemy could stand up to the way you charge.

Johnny (at zoo)—Isn't that monkey just like Uncle James?

Mother—Don't be so rude.

Johnny—But the monkey didn't hear.

Judge—Why did you steal the lady's carpet?

Tramp—I did not.

Judge—She says you did.

Tramp—She said take the carpet and beat it.

Husband—My dear wife, I have taken you safely over the rough spots of life, haven't I?

Wife—Yes, I don't believe you missed any of them.

Wife—What's the idea of poking the broom in the baby's face this morning?

Hubby—I just wanted to get him used to kissing his grandfather.

Man—Watcha cryin' for?

Boy—I lost my nickel.

Man—Where?

Boy—In Virginia.

Man—How come?

Boy—She swallowed it.

"Have you got so that you can distinguish classical music?" asked Mrs. Newrich.

"I think so," replied her husband.

"When a piece threatens every minute to be a tune and always disappoints you, it's classical!"

Judge—It seems to me I've seen you before.

Prisoner—You have, your Honor. I gave your daughter stinging lessons.

Judge—Thirty years!

"Johnnie, what did you have for breakfast?"

"Teacher, I ate six eggs."

"Why, Johnnie! You should say 'ate'."

"Well, maybe it was 'eight' that I ate."

Captain—Well, Private Smith, what did you have for dinner?

Private—That, sir.

Captain (to sergeant)—What does he mean by "that", sergeant?

Sergeant—It's only his ignorance, sir. He means "spade".

Lord Blank (on telephone)—Hello! Hello! Please reserve a box for two for tomorrow night.

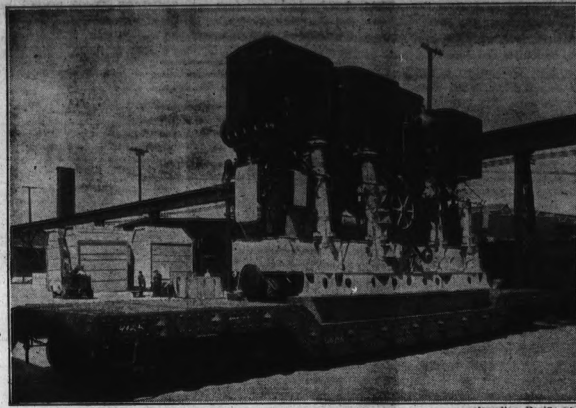

Voice—Sorry, our boxes are only for one.

Lord Blank—What do you mean?

Voice—You're the Grand Theatre?

Voice—No. I'm Smith, the undertaker.

Marine Engines Made And Carried By C.P.R.

Huge marine engines for Canada's busy shipyards are here shown on a Canadian Pacific Railway depressed-centre flat car ready for shipment from the C.P.R.'s Angus Shops in Montreal, where they have been made since the completion of an order there for 1,400 Valentine tanks which saw battle service in Russia and North Africa. In being carried to their destination in Quebec City the engines require special handling to squeeze them past permanent installations such as bridges with advice on their movement being given by the company's engineering department.

No Doubt About It

But Certificates Will Prove Your Compulsory Savings Are Secure

Great numbers of Canadian taxpayers will be glad to receive the certificates showing the amounts of compulsory war savings standing to their credit. Mischievous talk has sown doubt regarding these funds, and some glib persons have believed the alarmists who said: "You will never see that money again." These certificates give the lie to that dangerous whispering and should reassure the public that their compulsory savings are just as secure, and as certain of being repaid to them with interest after war, as money in the bank. Canada's pledge stands behind these funds, and Canada has never broken her solemn word.—Hamilton Spectator.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

NOVEMBER 7

THE SACREDNESS OF HUMAN LIFE

Golden text: Whosoever hateth his brother is a murderer. 1 John 3:15. Lesson: Exodus 20:13; Matthew 5: 21-26, 33-45. Devotional Reading: James 4:1-10.

Explanations and Comments
The Sacredness of Human Life, Exodus 20:13. The sixth commandment reads, "Thou shalt not kill." The Hebrew word translated "kill" is not the usual word for that verb, and the English Revised Version (not the American) translates the sentence, "Thou shalt do no murder," indicating that the prohibition does not include every kind of killing but only that kind which we call murder.

In our courts one who kills another in order to save his own life or the lives of others, or who kills another accidentally, is charged with manslaughter, not with murder. One who commits murder is actuated by personal motive or passion. The soldier in battle is not actuated by any personal feeling against the one whom he kills; he is fighting for his country, for the lives of others, and does not violate this commandment. Jesus extends the Sixth Commandment to include Angry Words and Feelings of Hatred, Matthew 5:21-26. Ye have heard that it was said to them of old time, "Thou shalt not kill, and whosoever shall kill shall be in danger of the judgment." "In danger of," originally means "in the power of," as Shakespeare's use in the sentence "You stand within his danger, do you not?" shows. The Greek verb means "held" or "bound by," hence "liable, subject to." "The judgment" was the lower Jewish court, the local tribunal of seven men found in every village. "But I say unto you," Jesus repeats that not only demand the fulfilment of the Mosaic law but in each case carry its fulfilment beyond the letter of the law into the realm of the spirit of the law. "But I say unto you, that everyone who is angry with his brother shall be in danger of the judgment." Jesus forbids the breaking of the law in thought; he traces the sin back to its source and forbids the angry thought that leads to the angry word and sometimes to the angry deed of murder. "The hand must not strike the murderous blow," said Moses. "The thought that dwells upon the possibility, the desire, of striking the blow is equally guilty," declares Jesus.

Since anger is wicked, one should seek reconciliation early with another whom one has offended. If therefore you are offering your gift at the altar and remember that your brother holds anything against you, do not postpone your duty of seeking reconciliation to a more convenient time, but, leaving your gift there, go at once and become reconciled with him, then return to present your gift.

Bean Jonathan by J.B. Ryan

CHAPTER IX.

THE girl straightened at Jonathan's step and turned, the eyes in the white mask watching as she backed against the desk. She was obviously trying to screen from Jonathan the object that had been engaging her attention. But Jonathan had glimpsed already his own purse and the gold scattered over the little table-top.

"Well, my girl," Jonathan raised his brows, "has Sir Maurice paid you so little that you must steal from me? Or have you some ready explanation for your presence in my quarters?"

The girl lifted her hand and slowly removed the mask from her face. "I did not come to steal, Jonathan."

The man stared open-mouthed, thunderstruck with amazement. The surprise that had been his when confronted unexpectedly with Lord Farquhar was nothing compared to the shock that went through him now at sight of the girl's face. He had not been mistaken, then, about that reddish hair—

"Yes?" he prompted gently, when she paused. "And now, Anne?"

Her hands twitched helplessly. "I find you different—so changed, Jonathan. You are now those most down-at-heel. You are not the lad who blushed when he asked me to marry him. What happened to you, Jonathan?"

"HAVE NOT changed, Anne," he said. "What you see is only a shell. I am about ready to discard it. If Denys were alive he would tell you that my faith in you has never wavered. He met his death while helping me search for you. Would he have done that if he did not know that misunderstanding at the Castle Theatre?"

"No," she admitted. "But this purpose..."

"I took it from Denys," he nodded. "And I used the gold as a foundation for this splendor that puzzles you. Yet in spite of all that, Anne, ask you to have faith in me."

"Oh, Jonathan—" Her lips moved tremulously. "I want to believe you—"

He reached out and she came unresting when he drew her closer. "Anne," he murmured, "look at me. Do you still believe I killed Denys?"

She refused to meet his gaze. Instead, her head went down and then, in a sudden, convulsive movement, she was clinging to him, face buried among the buttons and velvet of his doublet. "No, Jonathan," he heard her muffled sob. "Down in my heart I knew you to be incapable of such wickedness."

Jonathan pressed his face down into that curling, red-brown hair. "Anne, my Anne!" His voice was husky as her own. Tenderly he placed an arm about her and thrust a finger of his free hand under her chin, finally lifting her bowed head to raise. As her face lifted under his, he kissed her again and again, placing his lips on the hair of her close eyes, her smooth cheek and finally on the soft, responsive mouth.

SHE opened her eyes at last, but made no effort to remove herself from his embrace. "Don't ever leave me again, Jonathan," she whispered shakily. "Keep me with you—always."

"You shall be my wife before you leave this house," he smiled back at her. "Surely Sir Maurice Blaine did not forget the clergy when making out the list of my guests. Then a shadow dimmed the brightness of his countenance. "But—there still remains a bit of unfinished business—my Lord Farquhar."

His arms shared the tremor that went through her. "What do you intend, Jonathan?"

"I have not yet told you why I became a London gaiter. You see, Anne, until today I did not know the name of his lordship nor where to seek him. This was the only way I could find him and—so I thought—through him, you."

"But—now that you have found me, must you continue this quarrel? After all, his lordship has not harmed me."

"It was Farquhar, Anne, who killed Denys. He did not wield the knife, but it is he, more than the servants who acted for him, who is the murderer of the man who was our friend. I promised Denys he would be avenged."

Her white face, paler than his, remained mute when he paused. "Denys loved you, Anne," he reminded her. "And to me, even in the short while I knew him, he proved himself everything a friend should be. I must close blades with Farquhar."

She took a long breath, then released it in a little sigh. "You cannot do otherwise. But—Jonathan—"

His arms tightened about her and he kissed her once more. Then he released her and stepped back. "My sword is in that closet," he said, turning toward a paneled wardrobe. "You will remain here until I return. I shall send up a maid to attend to your wants—"

A BARDONIC voice cut into the instructions. "Keep away from that closet, Hale! If you step any nearer to that sword, I shall send a ball through your head."

In the open doorway of the bedroom stood Lord Farquhar, the barrel of a pistol aimed straight at Jonathan Hale. While Jonathan and Anne stared at the black-garbed figure, his lordship advanced a step into the room and closed the door.

"You need more than a mask to hide yourself from me, Mistress Anne," he said with a cold smile. "I spotted you among those minutes and hunted you 'as soon as the pageant was ended. I lingered outside in the hall and overheard every word of this touching reunion."

"Put up that pistol, Farquhar," said Jonathan. "You have a sword downstairs and behind this house is a garden where we can settle our differences."

"I do not fight commoners." The sunken eyes reflected the coldness on the thin lips. "I regret that I have just learned that John Hale, gentlemen, is none other than the old-helping Puritan from Winnipeg."

Jonathan smiled with deliberate contempt. "I had imagined that the treatment you received at my hands in a certain country tavern would be enough to cause you to overlook the differences in our stations."

The bony jaw bulged as Farquhar maintained reserve under the taunt. "I never thought, Jonathan Hale, that when I found you again I would let you live this long. But greater than my wish to carve you to bits is another desire—my wish to let you even let you go scot-free."

He moved forward then, placing himself between the upper hand, but the door of the room. "You may as well take chairs," he said. "This conversation may be lengthy."

JONATHAN eyed the raised hammer of the pistol, then allowed Farquhar to wave him back. His lordship led the upper hand now, but if the fellow were allowed to talk, his vigilance would relax—and—

"I had Monsieur Denys killed," began Farquhar, "because I believed him to be in love with Mistress Jonathan. With the Frenchman removed, I thought my road to heart and affections would be cleared. But it seems that I erred in having Denys slain. I ordered the death of the wrong man." His eyes shifted to Jonathan. "You realize your position, Hale? A word from me will expose you, cause your arrest and send you to the gallows for the murder of Monsieur Denys."

"No," Anne cried involuntarily. "My lord, not that!"

Jonathan stirred in his chair. "If you intend to have me jailed, let you go downstairs and have your story told to the police."

"I would prefer," murmured his lordship, "to have the suggestion come from Mistress Jonathan."

(To Be Continued)

Anne accepts Farquhar's proposition.

Calories and Crackers Great Difference in The Calorie Values Of Different Foods

Calories are units of measurement used by nutritionists to express the potential energy values of foods and the energy requirements of the human body. Calories have nothing to do with food classification, such as proteins, fats or carbohydrates, or with vitamins.

The number of calories needed each day varies according to age, sex and character of employment. About 900 calories needed by an infant up to 4500 needed by men engaged in very active work. Adults of both sexes, regardless of activity, should never have less than 2000 calories per day.

There are great differences in the calorie value of different foods. Butter ranks highest, with 3375 calories to the pound. Biscuits and soda crackers come next with 1976 to the pound, with cheese ranking third at 1870 calories to the pound. The lowest of all is spinach, which has only 110 calories to the pound.

There is unquestionably a sound scientific basis for the perennial popularity of crackers and cheese. This simple diet—buttered soda crackers with cheese, contains the three food items that are at the top of the calorie list.

The high calorie value of biscuits and crackers is due to the wheat flour and many other food ingredients they contain, plus the elimination of moisture, or dehydration, which results in a crisp, tasty biscuit that can be kept almost indefinitely without risk of spoiling and to its adaptability in menu-making.

Old-Timers Appreciated Record Chalked Up By Members Of The Gutta Percha & Rubber Limited

Imagine working for one firm for from 25 to 56 years!

That's the record chalked up by 266 members of the Gutta Percha & Rubber Limited, staff throughout Canada.

So unique in the history of the rubber industry of Canada—or even of Canadian industry at large is this record that the firm, celebrated by forming a 25 Year Club and presenting to each of the members an engraved gold watch.

In Toronto over a thousand employees gathered on October 8th, at a reception in the Royal York Hotel to the 244 Old-timers from that city and the President Mr. F. A. Warren took them of his warm feelings of respect for all his "old friends" and regretted that he could not be present at like banquets at Vancouver, Winnipeg, Montreal and Halifax for 22 other members of the 25 Year Club, while at Edmonton, October 15 was the date.

The Honorary President of the 25 Year Club is Walter J. Scott, a member with 56 years service to his credit, and on behalf of the Charter Members he presented a desk set to Mr. Warren.

There is something heart-warming and non-commercial about a firm which so respects and recognizes its men who have been faithful and loyal. That is the hope of the future generations, too, because without this spirit wars will have been fought in vain. After all one quarter of a staff numbering over 1,000 employees, 25 years or more is some record!

NEWFOUNDLAND'S WAR EFFORT Out of a male population in Newfoundland of 40,000 more than a quarter have volunteered to serve abroad.

Numbers of these men are with Newfoundland Artillery Regiments of the United Kingdom forces; with the Royal Navy, the Royal Air Force, the Merchant Marine and the Forestry Unit. Many have enlisted in the Canadian armed forces.

3-PURPOSE MEDICINE Hits CANADIAN MISERY Fast!

When acute catarrh makes breathing difficult—coughs stuffy head, watery eyes, nasal irritation and distress, get few drops of Vicks-Vapo-Rol in each nostril and enjoy the relief it brings.

It does three very important things: (1) shrinks swollen membranes of the nose, (2) clears out discharges, (3) soothes irritation. Many catarrhs sufferers say it's the best relief they've found.

Railway Is Taking Entire Output For Western Lines

R. C. Vaughan, chairman and president of Canadian National Railway, stated that Canadian Oil Limited, a subsidiary of the C.N.R., has begun production of fuel oil from wells at Vermilion, Alta., for the railway's locomotives in western Canada.

Canadian Oil controls 620 acres of Vermilion, where 38 wells have been drilled, 10 of which are producing 350 barrels a day. A total of 30 wells is planned.

In addition, the railway is taking the entire output of the Vermilion refinery company's treating plant close to Vermilion, the announcement said.

"We are opening the wells," Mr. Vaughan said, "as a wartime measure of precaution to secure an adequate supply and reserve of fuel oil for the railway's western services."

Japan Optimistic High Officials Confident They Will Eventually Win The War

High Japanese officials appear to expect that Germany will collapse, but declare the war will continue for five years after that, a Chinese correspondent for Imperial of Santiago, returning home on the exchange ship Tetsu Maru, asserted.

The correspondent said the official Japanese position was that the German collapse would not affect the Japanese greatly because Japan was prepared to stand alone. On the other hand, the Japanese feel that Germany's fate is greatly affected by Japan's moves.

The correspondent, not a repatriate since his country is not at war with Japan, said so far as he was able to ascertain from outward appearance the Japanese people still are convinced they will win the war.

He said the Japanese had been relatively successful in winning the support of local populations in all parts of their captured territory except the Philippines, where the people remained hostile.

In the time of Queen Elizabeth, men often wrote a bill of fare in their wills. These specified the foods to be served at the feast following their funerals.

Even Small Cooks Can Make Perfect Muffins

Proud as punch is this very young lady as she turns out a batch of perfect muffins. She made them all by herself and declares it is as easy as can be. She is absolutely right. Muffins are made with the simplest of mixing operations. The only trick is this, don't over beat!

If you have a young daughter in your house, why not let her try her hand at muffins? Or why not try them yourself? Here is the recipe our juvenile chef pronounces "Simply Scrumptious!"

BEST BAKED MUFFINS

Proud as punch is this very young lady as she turns out a batch of perfect muffins. She made them all by herself and declares it is as easy as can be. She is absolutely right. Muffins are made with the simplest of mixing operations. The only trick is this, don't over beat!

- 2 tablespoons shortening
 - 1 tablespoon sugar
 - 1 egg
 - 1 cup All-Bran
 - ¾ cup milk
 - 1 cup flour
 - ½ teaspoon salt
 - 2½ teaspoons baking powder
- Cream shortening and sugar; add egg and beat well. Stir in All-Bran and milk; let soak until most of moisture is taken up. Stir flour with salt and baking powder; add to first mixture; mix until just until four disappears. Fill greased muffin pans two-thirds full and bake in moderately hot oven (400 degrees F.) about 30 minutes. Yield: 8 large muffins (3 inches in diameter); 12 small muffins (2½ inches in diameter).
- Note: When sour milk or buttermilk is used instead of sweet milk, reduce baking powder to one teaspoon and add ½ teaspoon soda.

Japan Optimistic High Officials Confident They Will Eventually Win The War

High Japanese officials appear to expect that Germany will collapse, but declare the war will continue for five years after that, a Chinese correspondent for Imperial of Santiago, returning home on the exchange ship Tetsu Maru, asserted.

The correspondent said the official Japanese position was that the German collapse would not affect the Japanese greatly because Japan was prepared to stand alone. On the other hand, the Japanese feel that Germany's fate is greatly affected by Japan's moves.

The correspondent, not a repatriate since his country is not at war with Japan, said so far as he was able to ascertain from outward appearance the Japanese people still are convinced they will win the war.

He said the Japanese had been relatively successful in winning the support of local populations in all parts of their captured territory except the Philippines, where the people remained hostile.

In the time of Queen Elizabeth, men often wrote a bill of fare in their wills. These specified the foods to be served at the feast following their funerals.

Even Small Cooks Can Make Perfect Muffins

Proud as punch is this very young lady as she turns out a batch of perfect muffins. She made them all by herself and declares it is as easy as can be. She is absolutely right. Muffins are made with the simplest of mixing operations. The only trick is this, don't over beat!

If you have a young daughter in your house, why not let her try her hand at muffins? Or why not try them yourself? Here is the recipe our juvenile chef pronounces "Simply Scrumptious!"

BEST BAKED MUFFINS

Proud as punch is this very young lady as she turns out a batch of perfect muffins. She made them all by herself and declares it is as easy as can be. She is absolutely right. Muffins are made with the simplest of mixing operations. The only trick is this, don't over beat!

- 2 tablespoons shortening
 - 1 tablespoon sugar
 - 1 egg
 - 1 cup All-Bran
 - ¾ cup milk
 - 1 cup flour
 - ½ teaspoon salt
 - 2½ teaspoons baking powder
- Cream shortening and sugar; add egg and beat well. Stir in All-Bran and milk; let soak until most of moisture is taken up. Stir flour with salt and baking powder; add to first mixture; mix until just until four disappears. Fill greased muffin pans two-thirds full and bake in moderately hot oven (400 degrees F.) about 30 minutes. Yield: 8 large muffins (3 inches in diameter); 12 small muffins (2½ inches in diameter).
- Note: When sour milk or buttermilk is used instead of sweet milk, reduce baking powder to one teaspoon and add ½ teaspoon soda.

I STOPPED "DOSING" MY CONSTIPATION AND CORRECTED THE CAUSE!

● In these busy days of war you owe it to your country—as well as to yourself—to keep "in the pink." That's why it's so important to avoid the common type of constipation caused by lack of "bulk" in the diet. And this is by no means a difficult task. Instead of "dosing" with harsh purgatives that give only temporary relief, just follow this simple plan. Eat

KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN every day! It's delicious as a cereal or hot, tasty mixture. Drink plenty of water. Then see if you don't agree that ALL-BRAN is the "better way" to natural regularity. But remember, eat ALL-BRAN every day!

Grocers have ALL-BRAN in two convenient sizes. Made by Kellogg's in London, Canada.
